GIF images make active use of the 'page' or 'virtual canvas', size and offset information in images cropped by IM. If you don't want this information remove it with "+repage" immediately after the "-crop". Note that many image formats don't save this virtual page/canvas information, so saving to such formats automatically removes it.

Pillars of Creation is a photograph taken by the Hubble Space Telescope of elephant trunks of interstellar gas and dust in the Eagle Nebula, specifically the Serpens constellation, some 6,500–7,000 light years from Earth. They are so named because the gas and dust are in the process of creating new stars, while also being eroded by the light from nearby stars that have recently formed.

To be usable in most applications, RAW files must be demosaiced (though many Imatest modules can analyze RAW files directly). Demosaicing (sometimes spelled demosaicking) a form of interpolation that fills in the missing colors for each pixel. It is the primary function of RAW converter programs (which may be either built into the camera or installed on a separate computer).
